POLICE CONSPICUOUS AT SUBWAY STATIONS.

An average of ten local and three express trains were run in the subway every hour during the morning. The headway on the local tracks varied from two to fifteen minutes. Express trains were run whenever possible.

All of the stations were lined with detectives and special policemen in the employ of the Interborough Company About 8 o'clock these were reinforced by a number of regular policemen.

A watchful lookout was kept for strikers and strike sympathizers. The company's detectives shouldered their way through the crowds of passengers as though eager for the fray.
